Kimly Group

Tailwinds subsiding

- We see tailwinds subsiding due to Singapore's significantly-relaxed Covid-19 measures since Apr. Workers return to office could impact Kimly's footfall.
- We also expect further margin compression in 2HFY9/22F arising from higher raw material and staff costs. We lower our FY22-24F EPS by 9-17%.
- Downgrade to Hold with a lower TP of S$0.41, now pegged to 15.4x CY23F P/E (vs. 16.8x previously), based on -0.5 s.d. from 5-year historical mean.

1HFY22 helped by Tenderfresh contribution and easing restrictions

Kimly reported 1HFY9/22 net profit of S$19m (+6% hoh, -15% yoy), in line with our expectation at 51% of our full-year forecast but slightly below consensus' at 48% of Bloomberg consensus FY22F. Revenue rose to S$157m (+35% hoh, +28% yoy) due to higher-than-expected contribution (S$37.4m) from newly-acquired Tenderfresh (consolidated since 1 Oct 2021). However, this was offset by higher cost pressure which negatively impacted margins. An interim dividend of 0.56 scts (flat yoy) was proposed.

Singapore's reopening could impact Kimly's footfall

Singapore dropped most of its pandemic restrictions in Apr, with significantly eased border measures and working from home no longer the default. As the bulk of Kimly's outlets are located in residential heartlands, we think it could be impacted by lower footfall as employees gradually return to their workplaces. This could be cushioned partially by rising inflation (which might cause downtrading among consumers towards mass-market dining options) and removal of dine-in group size limits (which could especially benefit zichar and drink store sales). Kimly also announced that its management agreements of nine coffee shops under a third-party brand will be terminated in 2HFY22F, following this brand owner's internal reorganisation; we estimate c.5% revenue impact on Kimly's FY23F outlet management segment from this.

Further margin compression from rising costs

Kimly's OPM shrank 6.2% pts yoy in 1H22 on the back of higher food costs, staff expenses and utilities expenses. While pricing adjustments have been made in 2QFY22, we think those could be insufficient to cover the continued cost elevation in recent months. We cut our FY22F EPS by 8.7% to factor in lower margins as we think Kimly could see near-term margin pressure due to the time lag in cost past-through. Kimly has also flagged manpower shortage as the key reason for closing 12 underperforming food stalls; we lower our FY23-24F EPS by 13-17% to reflect lower store count assumptions.

Downgrade to Hold as tailwind subsides, TP lowered to S$0.41

We downgrade Kimly from Add to Hold, as tailwinds subside with post-Covid economy reopening. Our TP declines to S$0.41, now pegged to a lower 15.4x CY23F P/E (-0.5 s.d. from 5-year historical average) from 16.8x previously, in view of the group's slowing growth prospects. Upside risks include faster outlet growth, and accretive M&As. Downside risks include weaker footfall, higher cost pressures, and more outlet closures.

ESG in a nutshell

We think Kimly's governance was impacted by negative publicity arising from its rescinded acquisition of Asian Story Corporation (ASC) in 2018. Since then, the group has improved its internal controls, as well as maintained its focus on reducing wastage and being environmentally friendly. We view this favourably as investors are increasingly concerned about the ESG aspects of F&B operators. We believe Kimly will continue to improve its corporate governance and sustainability.

Keep your eye on

Two executive directors of Kimly were previously implicated in legal issues over the group's rescinded acquisition offer of Asian Story Corporation (ASC) following the receipt of a written notification from Pokka Corporation stating its intention to terminate its manufacturing agreement with ASC. Both directors were investigated by the Commercial Affairs Department (CAD) and were each charged (in Nov 2021) with failure to notify the SGX of Kimly's proposed acquisition of ASC. Since then, both directors have resigned from Kimly's board.

Implications

We believe that management will be more diligent when identifying and executing future M&A transactions. Since the incident, Kimly has also engaged relevant professionals to assist in the review and enhancement of the group's internal controls and governance. We will remain watchful of future M&A deals announced by the group and identify potential governance issues where possible.

ESG highlights

As of end-FY21, the group had installed over 80 dishwashing machines at its outlets, resulting in more efficient washing of its crockery, reducing water wastage. Kimly also uses recycled packaging materials when designing new coffee shops, reducing the environmental impact of its operations. Its outlet network uses a real-time e-ordering system in order to minimise wastage of food ingredients. With regards to plastic conservation, the group implemented recycling programmes at its outlets, as well as rolled out new cup lid designs which remove the need for plastic straws.

Implications

As an F&B operator, it is important for Kimly to place adequate emphasis on tackling resource wastage, in our view. Based on the group's performance in this aspect, we think Kimly is doing satisfactorily. We have not factored this into our valuations.

Trends

F&B operators are increasingly pressured to improve their resource management, minimise waste generation, and be environmentally friendly. As investors increasingly focus on sustainability, this is an aspect Kimly has to focus on.

Implications

We think it is important for F&B operators to practice proper resource management, as this not only reduces expenses but also contributes to the environment. Thus far, we are satisfied that Kimly has kept up accordingly.
